FAQ

What is Boudoir Photography?

The term "Boudoir" is a french word for a woman's dressing room. Boudoir photography is photographs of women in lingerie. Boudoir portraiture has been gaining immense popularity in recent years. As women, we spend endless amounts of time and money pampering ourselves with beauty products and services, clothing, accessories, fitness and even plastic surgery to make us feel beautiful. By investing in portraiture of ourselves, we can capture and document our beauty to treasure for a lifetime.

What should I wear?

-Wear whatever you feel most comfortable in.

For wedding boudoir shoots, lingerie bought especially for your wedding day or even a plain white T-shirt or your partners button up shirt.

During the shoot, you can change outfits as up to four times.

You do need to bring your own lingerie to the photo shoot.

Select outfits that suit your personality and body shape, and complement your skin tone.

What should I be aware of when preparing for my shoot?

-A good nights sleep beforehand is recommended, clean and tidy nails, clean soles of the feet (common oversight) and no alcohol the night before as it can cause reddening of the eyes. please think of the following things: Hair touch-ups, waxing, eyebrow shaping and moisturizing.

Can I bring a friend along so I am not as nervous?

-Absolutely!!! A Female friend is great to have as support! Even better, back to back sessions - a ladies day out! But, sometimes an 'audience' can make you feel more self conscious, so be aware of this before you decide to bring a friend.

If I choose to have my boudoir session done in a hotel is that included?

-If you want to do your boudoir session in a hotel then you'll need to pay for a one night stay at that hotel.
